tham Chunder Bose, in the Washington Square Methodist Episcopal Church: "Hindonsm has two sides, a popular and philosophie. Popular Hindwism has no scheme of salvation connected with it. Salvation is not to be obtained by works alone. There are three prerequisites, the reading of the Vedas, or Sacred Scriptures, sacrinces and almospiving. Only certain persons can teach the Vedas. They are those who have received them by an apostolic succession. Max Muller, with all his knowledge of Santert, cannot, in this sense, be regarded as a teacher of the Vedas. Under such a teacher the devotee is to place himseif for a certain period. He must then retire in seclu-sion, and spend years in meditation. Through meditation should have looked for a sealish prayer, for he was in a perions strait, just at the guncture where he had taken a matten of slaves and was trying to naturalize them. But he deesn't pray — New Lord, save my reputation; teach me the art of diplomacy; lead me safely out of these difficulties? No, he destired a higher boom, God had makered said of Moses's previous prayers. The Rev. Mr. Taimage at the Brooklyn Tabernacle. "We are surrounded by mystery, a vast unexplored realm, which science, I have no doubt, will yet map out. He that explores that realm will do more service to the world, than Columbus or Americus Vespucius. There are so many things we cannot account for, so many sights approaching to the spectral, and so many effects without apparent cause. The wall between the spiritual, and the material world is very thin. That there are simunications between this world of ours and the axt there can be no doubt, with spirits of the departed fing from this world, and ministering angels coming our that world to this. I don't know but there may be metimes complete, constant and unmistakable lines of minunication open between this world and the next. The copen the door many fingers have been busy, and there is been a whole library of hous-pocus written—enough deceive even the elect. Modern Spiritualism, which oppess to open the door and put us in communication the dead, has not yet offered a single credential, anything to recommend it. All its iracles are sleight of hand and rank imposition, which we been repeatedly exposed. 'By their fruits ye shall low them,' and by this test I conclude that the tree of communications between this world of ours and the next there can be no doubt, with spirits of the departed going from this world, and ministering angels coming from that world to this. I don't know but there may be sometimes complete, constant and unmistakable lines of communication open between this world and the next. than to the same date of 1883. The Engineering and Mining Journal comments on the situation as follows:

The trade continues very dull, and has proved a disappointment even to those who were not inclined to take very sangiture view as to the immediate effect of the restriction agreed upon for May. Business is confined to a male concessions. The result naturally is that those companies which make road. Buyers are naturally exceedingly cautions, and domestic sizes particularly are totally neglected.

The exports of gold has tweek again were heavy, amounting to $5,806,986, and making a total of $23,815,782 since January 1. Of lass week's movements, $5,433,086 was to Europe and the remainder to havana and South American ports. The imports of specie for the week were also unusually large, amounting to $5,53,308. At the hour last evening when the Custom House made this report it was too late to learn what part of the amount was gold and what silver, but it is surmised that it includes a large sum of Spanish doubloons that have been reported as in transit for Havana and is here waiting for the next steamer for that port; if
